

Forward
TOGETHER
in Faith As Equippers

*Participating in the Synod's mission assessment "has given us even more confidence to go boldly into the future God is calling us to."
- Pastor Wayne Matthias-Long, Reformation, Media*

The environment in which our congregations serve is changing - perhaps more than some of us would like. That's why our Synod is focusing on ways to better equip ministry leaders to serve effectively in the 21st Century.

Forward Together in Faith has helped pilot congregations participate in a mission assessment process to help affirm their strengths and identify growing edges. "It's nice to have data to support decisions about how to move forward," says Teri Lanan of Trinity, Lansdale. Proceeds of the campaign will help all congregations that want to receive an assessment.

Funding will also help Synod teams build online courses and workshops to help congregations improve communications, outreach and other areas of ministry.

"Not having a lot of debt... gives me freedom to discern what is best for me in my ministry, and also what is best for the church." - Seminarian Kat Steinly, LTSP '15

Moving into the future also requires that pastors and other church professionals have the flexibility to innovate. Forward Together in Faith will raise funds to increase our financial support of seminarians, so that future leaders will not be crippled by high education debt.

Forward
TOGETHER
in Faith As Equippers

*Participating in the Synod's mission assessment "has given us even more confidence to go boldly into the future God is calling us to."
- Pastor Wayne Matthias-Long, Reformation, Media*

The environment in which our congregations serve is changing - perhaps more than some of us would like. That's why our Synod is focusing on ways to better equip ministry leaders to serve effectively in the 21st Century.

Forward Together in Faith has helped pilot congregations participate in a mission assessment process to help affirm their strengths and identify growing edges. "It's nice to have data to support decisions about how to move forward," says Teri Lanan of Trinity, Lansdale. Proceeds of the campaign will help all congregations that want to receive an assessment.

Funding will also help Synod teams build online courses and workshops to help congregations improve communications, outreach and other areas of ministry.

"Not having a lot of debt... gives me freedom to discern what is best for me in my ministry, and also what is best for the church." - Seminarian Kat Steinly, LTSP '15

Moving into the future also requires that pastors and other church professionals have the flexibility to innovate. Forward Together in Faith will raise funds to increase our financial support of seminarians, so that future leaders will not be crippled by high education debt.